

WASHINGTON - U.S. Rep. Harry Mitchell today launched an online GI Bill Resource Center to provide veterans with information and important resources on the Post-9/11 GI Bill. He is launching the website in advance of the GI Bill Informational Workshops he is hosting on Saturday.

"As a former teacher, I know the value of a quality education," Mitchell said. "Because our veterans have bravely served us, we have a responsibility to provide them with the educational opportunities they deserve. I've created this page to help them avoid red tape and get the benefits they've earned."

Mitchell's GI Bill Resource Center is accessible on his website's Important Resources page or by clicking here

On Saturday, June 6, U.S. Rep. Harry Mitchell will host two workshops about the new Webb-Mitchell Post-9/11 GI Bill that became law last year. The workshops will be held at 2 p.m. at Mesa Community college and at 11 a.m. at the Arizona National Guard Headquarters Russell Auditorium on E. McDowell Road in Phoenix. Veterans will have the opportunity to have their questions answered by an expert on GI Bill education benefits from the Department of Veterans Affairs, as well as local educational institutions.